DRIVING URBAN CHANGE

Transforming the spaces in which we live, work and play to enable a more sustainable and prosperous future for all.

The COVID-19 pandemic has forced us to rethink the way we live. It is transforming our industries and how we do business. It is intensifying social and environmental crises in our communities. And it is challenging fundamental assumptions and global trends, such as urbanization, to build the smartest city for tomorrow.

As the world prepares to build back stronger and better, the whole real estate industry has to drive the change all together and work on essential values: livability, sustainability, resilience and affordability.

These are strictly necessary to drive a transition of the real estate ecosystem and the built environment. Thanks to technological innovation and progress, we have new tools available to support this effort and to reimagine and transform physical spaces—our homes, offices, factories, farms, healthcare facilities and public spaces—to be more adaptive, customized and even anticipate new needs before they arise. New models for public-private cooperation and shared community services are also changing the way in which cities provide services to residents and business, blurring the lines between government and the private sector with more and more initiatives arriving from all sides, to move forward in the right way.

For this 2022 Mipim edition, the conferences programme will rely on 6 different highlights:

- Cities for Citizens – The big debate
- Housing First – Back to essentiality
- Green is the new black – The new deal
- The office uprising: Innovating to bounce back
- Real Estate: much more than an asset – A jump in a financial market
- Real Estate Tech – Future is now!

GRAND AUDITORIUM

AWARDS CEREMONY

[illegible]

Here are the 2022 MIPIM Awards finalists

For its 32th edition, the MIPIM Awards will once again recognise the most outstanding talents and achievements in the real estate industry.

The jury of high-profile experts and chaired this year by François Trausch, Global CEO & CIO of Allianz Real Estate, has whittled the 171 entries down to a shortlist of 45 projects.

It's now time to vote for the winners, and celebrate the best of the industry!

Until midday on Thursday 17 March, all 45 finalists are submitted to a vote at the MIPIM Awards Gallery located in the heart of the exhibition area, and you are invited to vote for your favorite project in each category

Combined with the jury's vote, your vote will determine the eleven category winners to be announced at the prestigious MIPIM Awards Ceremony.

A vibrant, multi-level office space with a checkered floor, featuring people working and socializing. The text "SESSIONS DETAILS" is overlaid in large white letters. The scene is set in a modern, industrial-style building with exposed brick walls and wooden beams. On the upper level, a man in a light blue shirt and jeans stands near a railing, talking on a phone. Another man in a green shirt is seated at a desk, working on a laptop. On the lower level, a group of four people are gathered around a table, engaged in a discussion. A woman in a red jacket is walking down a set of stairs on the right side of the frame. The floor is covered in a black and white checkered pattern, and the overall atmosphere is bright and collaborative.

RE-INVEST SUMMIT

By invitation only

Sponsored by

Breakfast partner

RE-Invest provides a perfect opportunity for sovereign wealth, pension and insurance funds, and other capital owners to debate the latest investment strategies, trends, opportunities and challenges.

A particular focus will be on the problems associated with integrating ESG into sustainable investment decision making. What are the solutions? What impact could carbon accounting on green and brown assets have? What impact will Gen-Z have on sustainable ESG adoption with investors? What role should governments play in providing incentives and regulations? Looking at the social element, does its importance vary between countries globally? How much of a focus is there on governance in terms of operational efficiencies and analysing reputational concerns?

A specially invited VIP audience will participate in a learning and networking exchange consisting of a series of roundtables to examine the above issues. The tables will consist of an expert industry moderator and other investor peers. Afterwards, the moderator will then present their tables' key findings to the whole audience in attendance in the conference auditorium.

THE UK LIFE SCIENCES VISION: INNOVATION OPPORTUNITIES

The life sciences sector has built investment momentum for decades, with investors and developers continuously looking for new opportunities. Over the past 21 months, the sector has seen significant capital investment and demand. This competitive market is also facing challenges, including the loss of life science professionals with more talent leaving the UK than entering. How will this sector grow and why should we invest in life sciences? Does our industry have a vision for innovation?

THE FUTURE OF THE OFFICE: IS REMOTE WORKING A THREAT TO OFFICE SPACE?

Not a day passes without a 'working from home' or 'return to the office' headline while companies continue to adopt a hybrid approach to working. For most companies, the demand for physical space has been directly affected, and many are questioning their commitment. Occupiers' shifting priorities are having a major impact on the market. Our session will highlight these priorities, including the use of technology, the importance of sustainability and what landlords can do to secure leasing opportunities.

LET'S TALK ABOUT MISCONCEPTIONS OF ESG AND HOW WE WILL FIX THEM

Sponsored by

There are many myths surrounding ESG. It often leads to aimless reactionism, simply to have something done quickly. But this approach does not go far enough, because ESG is much more than sustainability, it is a harmony of future-oriented resource use and social responsibility. Buildings are the most important lever for achieving this harmony, and there are numerous best practices that show what measures can be taken to adequately address the issue of ESG. So everyone should ask themselves: What have I done to make my building greener?

WHAT GETS MEASURED GETS MANAGED – TIME TO PROVE GREEN IMPACT

As of 2022 it is no longer going to be enough anymore to simply tick a regulatory box. Regulatory and disclosure requirements will continue to drive transparency, however Article 8 and 9 will require to define concrete, measurable steps to set and achieve climate goals. Impact Investment's winners of the "green zero race" will be those who understand buildings no longer as physical objects but information systems that build their value on data. Our panelists share their view on taxonomy and regulations developments, the impact of a real data revolution and what it takes in 2022 to transform "green-wishing" into green action.

DÉVELOPPER LES FRICHES : POUR QUELS TYPES DE PROJETS ET À QUELLES CONDITIONS ?

Conference not translated in English

Face à l'urgence climatique, le recyclage foncier tend à s'imposer au plan national et européen comme une réponse efficace pour satisfaire la poursuite d'objectifs a priori difficilement conciliables que sont, d'une part, la lutte contre l'artificialisation des sols et, d'autre part, le soutien à l'économie et à la production de logements.

La réussite de ce type d'opérations, par nature complexes, passe inévitablement par la mobilisation de chaque acteur professionnel de l'immobilier, à son niveau, en qualité de propriétaire, d'aménageur, de constructeur, d'investisseur, de financeur, de conseil juridique ou technique aux côtés des élus des territoires concernés et des administrations compétentes.

La présente table ronde a ainsi pour vocation à interroger les conditions du partenariat à mettre en place entre ces acteurs incontournables de garantir la réussite de projets de reconversion de friches de grande qualité, vertueux au plan environnemental, économiquement équilibrés, juridiquement sécurisés et acceptables tant politiquement que socialement.

OCCUPIERS SUMMIT

By invitation only

In partnership with

The Occupiers' Summit - a special closed door event for end users of real estate - is a great opportunity to network with potential international business partners. It is also a perfect platform to debate and learn about the latest occupier trends, expectations and needs.

A specially invited VIP audience of real estate corporate professionals will participate in roundtables for a learning and networking exchange. They will be asked to debate the key topic of what can offices do to bounce back in a post pandemic environment? The tables will consist of an expert industry moderator and other international real estate corporate peers, who will debate their chosen topic for 40 minutes.

The moderator will then present their tables' key findings to the whole audience in attendance. The session concludes with 1-to-1 meetings, enabling attendees to connect further with new contacts and industry leaders in a private setting.

LA SANTÉ AU CHEVET DE LA VILLE : COMMENT LA PRISE EN COMPTE ÉLARGIE DES ENJEUX DE SANTÉ RENOUVELLE L'APPROCHE DE L'URBANISME ?

Conference not translated in English

La crise sanitaire représente « paradoxalement » l'opportunité d'accélérer la prise en compte des enjeux de santé et d'environnement dans les politiques publiques et dans les opérations d'aménagement. De nombreuses initiatives portées par des villes, des aménageurs et des promoteurs sont en cours d'expérimentation.

Pour autant les freins existent. Que ce soit du côté des décideurs, des aménageurs comme des concepteurs, la santé, du fait de sa transversalité, implique de travailler autrement sur les projets : créer des synergies avec les acteurs de la santé, mobiliser de nouvelles connaissances et de nouveaux outils et surtout associer les habitants à la transformation de leur environnement.

En quoi la santé bouscule-t-elle la fabrique de la ville ? Comment cela repositionne les acteurs de l'aménagement et de la promotion ? Quels sont les vecteurs d'innovation qui émergent de cette approche renouvelée de l'urbanisme ?

DOES LEVELLING UP RISK LEVELLING DOWN LONDON?

There is no denying that wealth and opportunity needs to be spread more evenly across the UK, but does a focus on levelling up the country, run the risk of leaving London behind? While the UK capital remains one of the most sought-after areas for investment, London suffered throughout the pandemic and could run the risk of being left behind some of its global competitors if its importance in generating national revenue is dampened. In this session we will investigate what impact the shift of investment from London to the regions could mean for the capital, where that shift is likely to be felt hardest and what needs to be done to make sure both London and the UK regions prosper.

SMART DENSIFICATION IN THE BRUSSELS-CAPITAL REGION

Reconciling a reasoned approach to smart densification and quality of life means taking into account the requirements related to architecture, quality of the buildings, green and open spaces, access to services, mobility, air quality, etc. It's an opportunity to shape a new identity for Brussels!

The Brussels-Capital Region has a number of tools at its disposal to achieve this ambition. The presentation on 17 March will focus on three of them:

- The reform of the zoning plans (PRAS) and the Urban planning regulation (RRU),
- Urban revitalisation tools,
- The creation of public housing.

The Minister-President, Rudi Vervoort, the Secretary of State for Urban Planning and Heritage, Pascal Smet and the Secretary of State for Housing, Nawal Ben Hamou will present all of this on Thursday 17 March 2022 in the Auditorium A of the Palais des Festivals.
